

GREAT INTEREST IN HOME-COMING

MANY OF THE "OLD GRADS" AND FORMER DEPAUW STUDENTS EXPECTED TO ATTEND EVENT SATURDAY EVENING

TO DISCUSS ATHLETICS

Great interest, judged from the letters and cards received from DePauw alumni, is being taken in the alumni home-coming and athletic conference here Saturday afternoon and evening. Five hundred invitations were sent out to every alumnus and former student in traveling distance of this city, and the returns show that practically one-third of the old grads will come back, and take part in the conference.

The idea of the alumni conference originated with the DePauw men who live in Greencastle. At a meeting called by F. C. Tilden, president of the alumni association, on the evening of the Miami game, it was decided to make the Butler game the day for a men's home-coming. Since the idea belongs to the local men no invitation were sent out to local people. All Greencastle people who have ever graduated from DePauw or been students in the institution, are considered to be a part of the committee on entertainment. It is hoped that every one will attend the dinner and take part in the discussion.

The dinner in the evening will be held at the Commercial Hotel. Arrangements are being made for 100 plates. There are about thirty-five local men, and practically every one of these are actively working to get their alumni back.

The alumni athletic conference will follow the dinner. The purpose of the conference is to discuss ways and means to improve DePauw's athletics and develop more athletic spirit in the university. A new constitution for the athletic board will also be up for discussion. The constitution that will be presented provides for alumni representation on the athletic board. At present the board consists of one alumnus, three faculty members, and three students. The new constitution provides for three faculty members, two students, and an equal number of alumni elected by the alumni and former students. It is hoped that through their representation the old grads will have a more active interest and control.

Another of the problems that will be up for discussion is the problem of getting good athletes to come to DePauw. It is pointed that the alumni of other schools take an active interest in sending students to their school but DePauw alumni do not at present take such an active interest in getting men to attend DePauw. It is probable that the matter of an alumni athletic association will be formed. If this is done the members of this association will practically have charge of the management of all DePauw athletics.

REV. TILLOTSON SPEAKS AT TERRE HAUTE CHURCH.

Local Minister Gives Address Before Methodist League, Monday Night.

That wonderful work in changing conditions for decency is due to the united efforts of men making a direct and sane appeal to their fellows was the keynote of a short, inspiring address by the Rev. Demetrius Tillotson before the Men's League of the First Methodist church last night. More than one hundred men attended the banquet in the basement, participated in the business of the organization and applauded the speaker.

Dr. Tillotson was welcomed as a former pastor of the church. He called attention to the fact that such a meeting of men would have been impossible when he left the charge 12 years ago, and from this changed condition outlined his talk on "The Place of Men in the Church." Dr. Tillotson rambled somewhat in his talk from the creation to women's suffrage, but rounded up each argument with the proof that direct and sane appeal to men will bring them into the church, where their work will go far towards making the world better and the people happier.

"Religion is useful," said Dr. Tillotson, "when it gets out of the church and gets hold of men. Political leaders and men of affairs of the future must reckon with these men, banded together to bring about better conditions in favor of morality and righteousness."

"We must learn that to deal with men is different from dealing with Sunday school scholars. It takes straightforward, earnest effort to interest them. The lesson Jesus taught in the New Testament was the sanest message ever given to men. No man can deny the truths. The campaign for righteousness will go if men are behind it."

Dr. Tillotson gave many illustrations of results in his work among men and explained that if there was anything that accomplished good it was through his study to present a reasonable and rational religion. This he said had gained for him the attention of men and enabled him to bring many into the church.—Terre Haute Star.

TRUSKETT TRIAL IS ON AGAIN.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., Nov. 11.—Work of selecting a jury for the fourth trial of A. A. Truskett, charged with the murder of J. D. S. Neely, a wealthy oil promoter of Lima, O., began here today. One hundred veniremen were in the first group summoned.

Truskett shot Neely in Caney, Kas., in Jan. 1911, following a disagreement over an oil land lease. His first trial resulted in conviction the other two in disagreements by the jury.

Insanity has been the plea in former trials.

Mr. Neely was the father of two former DePauw students, and was well-known in Greencastle.

Indian Hunt Ended.

Three runaway youngsters from Indianapolis, who started out to hunt Indians and grizzly bears Saturday morning, passed through this city that evening and were arrested in Brazil. The Brazil officers notified the Indianapolis police of their "capture" and Sunday the lad's parents went to Brazil and took them home. The boys had "hiked" and ridden freight trains from Indianapolis to Brazil. They are playmates at Indianapolis.

MYSTERY IN THE MORLAN DEATH

YOUNG MAN WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED TO SEVERAL CRIMES—MAY HAVE BEEN IMPLICATED IN THE NEWTON MURDER.

ADMITS FIRING BARN

A few minutes after he had made a confession to Rev. Vail, pastor of the U. B. church at Harmony about 5 o'clock last evening, in which he is alleged to have made sensational disclosures, George Morlan, aged 27, of near Lena, walked out of the minister's home into the front yard and committed suicide by drinking the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid.

About 5 o'clock Morlan called at the minister's residence and said that he had committed a great sin and wanted to be forgiven. After Morlan had told his story the minister knelt in prayer with the young man and when he left he seemed to be satisfied.

The minister followed the young man to the front door and as he walked out in the yard Rev. Vail saw him raise his hand to his mouth but did not realize the motive of the action until Morlan had swallowed the poison and fell to the ground writhing in pain from the acid. Physicians were called but were unable to save the young man's life and he died in a short time.

The sensational features of the case are that Morlan is alleged to have confessed to the minister that he fired the barn of Henry Snow, northwest of the city in Dick Johnson township which was burned last Wednesday night to secure the insurance of $315 on his team of horses which were temporarily quartered in the barn. Morlan was suspected of this act and a warrant had already been sworn out for his arrest and placed in the hands of an officer on the charge of arson.

It is also rumored that Morlan confessed to the minister as having been implicated in the robbery and killing of Daniel Newton, the Lena postmaster, who was robbed and murdered several weeks ago. It is known that the police had directed suspicion toward Morlan and that he would probably have been arrested on this charge in a few days as the officers had secured evidence which pointed to his connection with the case.

The suicide was a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morlan living near Lena. He was a farmer and teamster and is said to have had a great love for money.

Coroner Smith and Deputy Coroner Williams returned late Monday afternoon after making a complete investigation of the suicide. They learned from Rev. Vail that Morlan confessed to having set fire to Henry Snow's barn in order to collect the insurance on his horses. Morlan told the minister that he was engaged to marry Miss Ollie Butler, a young lady of near Lena, and was anxious to get married but did not have the funds.

A mortgage of $40 on his horses was about due and in order to pay this and get enough money to get married he fired the barn to get the insurance.

Coroner Smith also investigated the rumor that Morlan was implicated in the killing of Daniel Newton but found there was no foundation for the rumor. Coroner Smith stated that he had little trouble in finding that Morlan was innocent of the suspicion that had been directed toward him.

Morlan's parents are prostrated over the sad affair.—Brazil News.

HORSE BITES OFF HIS CHIN

FARMER OF CLAY COUNTY IS DISFIGURED FOR LIFE BY THE BITING OFF A PORTION OF HIS CHIN.

ACCIDENT ON SUNDAY EVE

The Brazil News tells of an odd accident as follows:

"William Caton, a well-known farmer of Harrison township, residing five miles south of Middlebury, met with a terrible accident Sunday evening when his chin and lower lip were torn away by one of his horses. "Caton had gone to the barn to tend to his horses and while feeding them two of the horses began to cut up and snap at each other. Caton was between two of the horses when one of them made a grab at the other just as Caton stepped forward and the horse sank its teeth into Caton's chin and lower lip tearing away the flesh.

"Part of the lower jaw was also torn away, leaving only two teeth on the lower jaw. Caton was crazed with pain but managed to reach the house and summon assistance. Physicians were called from Clay City to dress the wound and this morning the physicians went again to the Caton home to attempt to repair the mutilated portion of Caton's face by the grafting process.

"Caton's chin and lower lip could not be found and it is supposed that the horse ate the human flesh.

"The horse which mutilated Caton is not a vicious horse and the farmer says that the animal never attempted to bite any one and was merely snapping at the other horses.

TESTIMONY INDICATES THAT MOTHER POISONED DAUGHTER.

Possible Motive for Gosport Woman's Deed Seen in Attitude of Public Toward Unfortunate Girl.

Miss Ada B. Pines, an assistant at the Y. W. C. A., testified before Coroner Durham Monday relative to the death of Mrs. Emma D. White and her daughter, Della Frances White, who died of strychnine poisoning taken or administered in the dormitory of the Y. W. C. A. late Saturday night.

Her testimony strengthened the belief that the deaths were not the results of a suicide pact, but that the daughter was poisoned. Coroner Durham is inclined to favor the theory of homicide and suicide.

"When I arrived at the bedside," said Miss Pines, "the girl was rigid and suffering great pain. The mother apparently was not suffering much. She had one arm thrown across the form of her daughter."

Miss Pines said she asked what they had taken and the woman, between gasps for breath, said that it was strychnine. Miss Pines testified that she asked the mother if she had given the daughter some and that her answer was "Yes."

Miss Pines testified that crackers and candy were found strewn about the bed. Before Coroner Durham had an opportunity to examine them they were destroyed.

Lotes E. Truax, undertaker from Gosport, the home of the women. Monday said that the daughter was a child of obscure birth. It is said that the school children at Gosport had twitted the girl about her birth and that the mother had been informed of their talk. It is believed that this fact prompted the mother to decide to end her life and take the daughter with her. The mother was 34 years old and the daughter 14, according to Truax.

Truax was given charge of the bodies Monday by Coroner Durham and removed them to Gosport.—Indianapolis Star.

Mrs. White and her daughter were well-known in the south part of Putnam county.

At the Christian church tonight the first of the special Home Mission Week union meetings will be held. Dr. Tillotson will speak upon the American Indians, Africans and Asiatics. Rev. B. D. Beck will speak upon "The Frontier and Island Possessions." All are invited. See article elsewhere.

New Suit Filed

The Ladoga Canning Company, by its attorney, today filed a suit against the Bainbridge Canning Company for the alleged failure to carry out a contract. The complaint sets out that the Ladoga company purchased the entire pack or output of the Bainbridge company for the canning seasons of 1911 and 1912. For the pack of 1911 the Ladoga company paid the Bainbridge company an over-charge of about $900 it is claimed. Later the Ladoga company paid in cash one-half of the purchase price of the 1912 pack, and asked that the $900 over-charge on the pack of the season before be credited on the 1912 order. This, it is claimed, the Bainbridge people refused to do. The complaint further alleges that the Bainbridge company refuses to carry out the 1912 contract. It therefore asks that the Bainbridge company be compelled to return the $900 overcharge and to carry out the 1912 contract. M. M. Bachelder and Lyon & Peck are the attorneys for the Ladoga company while Allee & James are the attorneys for the Bainbridge company. The complaint further alleges that the Bainbridge company is insolvent.

MANY HUNTERS CHASE THE RABBIT AND QUAIL.

The woods and fields in Putnam county Monday were alive with hunters. Many Greencastle men as well as hunters from other nearby towns and cities were out chasing the rabbits and hunting the elusive quail. Several local enthusiasts reported today that they found quail plentiful, but the majority of those hunting the bird found them scarce. Many hunters failed to see a quail during the day.

Rabbits are more plentiful than first reported. Hunters with hounds, ferrets and guns found that the cotton tails were easily gotten. On account of the dryness of the grass and weeds trailing the rabbits and quail was hard work for the dogs. The light rain of this morning made the ground and grass in ideal condition for trailing. Numerous hunting parties went out this morning. So far, no accidents in this county have been reported.

DO YOU TAKE THE HERALD?

What He Said

Miss Carlson, her face considerably flushed, jerked out the slide of her desk, placed her notebook and pencils upon it with much emphasis, switched her skirts to the other side of her chair and sat down.

The other occupants of the stenographers' room exchanged glances. It was Miss Conrad who spoke, approaching her subject with graceful tact.

"What makes your face so red, Kitty?" she asked.

"Red!" exploded Miss Carlson. "Well, I guess it is red. I guess your face would be red, too, if you—Oh, it makes me so mad! That little nine-spot!"

"Gee! What's hurtin' you, Kit?" inquired Miss O'Hara. "Has O'Brien been tryin' to get funny again?"

"O'Brien!" snorted Miss Carlson. "No. Mr. O'Brien is a gentleman, if he does act foolish sometimes. It was that new guy, Winthrop."

"The one that wears the necktie that looks like a garter snake?" asked Miss Dusenberry, taking a hand-glass from a drawer in her desk and regarding her reflection therein critically.

"Yes, that's the one. Well, he certainly is the limit, and then some."

"What's the matter of him?" inquired Miss Jones mildly. "I think he's real cute-lookin'."

"Cute-lookin'! With that beard!" exclaimed Miss Hogan, scorn depicted in every feature. "Why, I never see him without I want to say 'Ba-a-a! Cute-lookin'! He looks like a billy-goat.'"

"Oh, cut it out, girls, and let Kit tell what he did," commanded Miss O'Hara. "Did he ask you to tell him if he went too fast? That's what the new ones gen'ly do, and like as not they can't dictate more'n fifteen words a minute."

"Naw," replied Miss Carlson. "I wouldn't of have minded that. Wait till I tell you."

She whirled her chair around to get a better command of her audience. "When I went in there," she said, "he was nosin' 'round in a lot of files, so I sat down and put my gum in my mouth and waited for him to toon up. After a while he turns round kind of absent-minded, like he was thinkin' about what he had for supper last night, and he remarks, 'Good maw-w-nin'!' Just like that—'Good maw-w-nin.'"

"Land!" commented Miss Hogan. "It always did make me tired to hear a person say 'good maw-w-nin'!' instid of 'good mornin', like other folks.'"

"After he got started he went along, all right, 'cep'n' for sayin' 'lahst' and 'pahst' and all like that, till he come to a place where he says, 'This matter seems to have fallen into an oculist's desert food.'"

"Well, thinks I, 'that certainly is a fierce bunch o' words to put in a letter.'"

"It was a kind of a long letter," continued Miss Carlson, "and when he got through he says, with a smile I guess he thought would tickle me to pieces: 'Will you please read that?'"

"All right," I says, and I started in and I read along till I come to the place where he said that about the oculist's desert food."

"When I come to that he kind of sat up and leaned over, and he says, 'Will you please repeat that lahst sentence?'"

"I read it back real slow and plain: 'This matter seems to have fallen into an oculist's desert food.'"

"Well, that chump gave a yell that liked to knocked me out my chair, and then he laughed like he's goin' to kill himself."

"I stood it for about a minute, and then I says, just as sarcastic, 'Excuse me, but, not bein' able to see the joke, I guess you won't need me any longer.' Then I picked up my pencils and my book and started out of the room. You bet I was sore."

"He kind of straightened out his face then and he says: 'Wait a minute, please. I ain't through yet.'"

"I was too mad to sit down and I just stood there like a wooden Indian, waitin' to see what he's goin' to say."

"I beg your pardon," he says, kind of chokin' to himself, 'but the last sentence isn't just what I said. I said innocuous dezwetood—i-n-n-o-c-u-s-d-e-s-u-e-t-u-d-e.'"

"Now, what do you know about that?"

"Well, I wrote down the fool stuff just like he spelled it, and then I looked him in the eye and I says: 'Maybe that's what you thought you was sayin', but I heard what you did say just as plain as day, and it's just like I wrote it and just like I read it—an oculist's desert food—and, land knows, it's bad enough either way.'"

"With that I sailed out of the room. I'm just a-goin' to tell her"—referring to the head stenographer, who, it is needless to say, was absent from the room during this recital—"that she needn't send me to him again, for I won't go. I'll throw up my job first. It's an insult to person's intelligence to send 'em to a man like that."

"Well, anyway, you give him what was comin' to him, Kittle," said Miss O'Hara, approvingly. "That's one thing."

"I sh'd say," chorused the others, with the exception of Miss Jones, who was thinking: "Well, it sounded real swell, anyhow."

Miss Carlson pushed down her belt buckle vigorously and turned back to her machine, and when the head stenographer entered a moment later an edifying clatter of typewriters greeted her.

A FARMER WHO FARMS.

There are three classes of men having to do with the soil—landowners, agriculturists and farmers. Those of the first class may hold large areas of land without having any knowledge of, or interest in, its cultivation. The distinction between the two other classes is less pronounced, and is gradually disappearing, though it may still be said that an agriculturist is one whose knowledge of soil manipulation is largely theoretical, while the farmer is one who lives on the soil, coaxing or compelling it to yield its harvests.

All of this by way of inviting attention to the modest career of a great American farmer. He is David Rankin, of Tarkio, Mo., and he cultivates an area of 25,640 acres. If you were to call him a landowner he would resent it. He insists that he does not "own lands," but farms and farms all he owns. Nor would it please him to be called an agriculturist; he is just a plain farmer doing business as an active partner of the soil and doing it so successfully that his property is now worth an average of $100 an acre. He has money invested—a few millions—in other enterprises, but he never forgets that it all came from the farm, and therefore never allows those outside investments to divert him from his farming operations, which he began more than half a century ago with possessions consisting solely of a good wife and five dollars in cash.

It is pleasant to contemplate a career like David Rankin's. It emphasizes the importance of sticking to one's chosen work and doing things earnestly. We do not imagine that Mr. Rankin considers his material wealth as by any means his and Mrs. Rankin's dearest possession. Both can probably point to certain fields of that magnificent farm and recollect that it was there that the early struggle was hardest, the soil most unresponsive and the rewards of toil the smallest. And that recollection must bear with it a sense of honorable conquest, of justified fair in the soil and of usefulness to the common good sweeter by far than the mere possession of the ease and fortune which their labors have won.

THEORY OF HOT BREAD UPSET.

The cook books so freely distributed by the United States Department of Agriculture have done a world of good in showing the ambitious housekeeper how to make the most of raw material. But perhaps one of the most grateful statements under the many covers of the many books is contained in the volume on the art of breadmaking. In a word, we are informed that hot rolls are not the awful things they have been painted.

"The fact that the bread is hot has little to do with the matter," says the cook book.

Of course these statements presuppose a healthy condition. They go on to add that the difference between white and other breads is so small as to be a negligible quantity, thereby upsetting the accepted theory that graham and whole wheat breads are more nutritious than the plain white variety.

THE NEW RULE POPULAR.

Seventeen cities and towns in Kansas have adopted commission government, Neodesha being the latest recruit. Kansas now leads in the number of cities which have abolished the old ward lines, even surpassing Texas, where the idea originated. Sioux City, Iowa, and Eau Claire, Wisconsin, are recent converts and there are now about sixty cities in all, representing sixteen States. Thus far there has been no disposition to go back to the old irresponsible system of ward politics.

WHAT IS FITTING.

No man can be said to be fitted for life who is not trained to enjoy life, to enjoy the best and noblest things it has to offer. He cannot be so trained if he is educated solely on the theory that he is to be a slave of his job all his days. He may be efficient, but he is not a human being. He may be an excellent workman, may make millions of dollars, but he is not a man. He is a machine. So the question is, are we to turn out men or machines?

THERE ARE VARIETIES.

"Telephone nerve" is a new complaint. Those who run in to a neighbor's to call up somebody without expense are the real cases, though the doctors don't include them.

THE MAIN TROUBLE.

Testimony that cold storage is a great equalizer of prices is entirely correct. The trouble is that it equalizes them at top figures.

WHEN A MAN'S FIFTY.

After a man reaches fifty, "all going out and nothing coming in" describes the condition of his teeth, his affections and his hair.

To Save Elastic.

To save elastic in children's blouses, which cost sometimes as much as the material of the blouse, take a piece of tape or selvage the size of the child's waist, less four inches. Cut the tape in half, insert four inches of elastic, put the tape with the elastic in the center of it. In the hem of the blouse. It will act the same as if it were all elastic and wear better. Therefore you can make six blouses with the same elastic which you would otherwise put in one blouse.

Sponges should be hung where the fresh air will reach them and where they will dry thoroughly. If possible, the sponge should be dried in the bright sunshine, and thoroughly scalded now and then in soda and water.

Of Interest to Women

Woman Railroad Doctor—Texan Is Probably Only Female Physician in the World Holding Such a Position—In Addition to This She Has a Large Practice.

Dr. Sofie Herzog of Brazoria, Tex., is said to be the only woman railroad surgeon in the world. She has held the position of surgeon for the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railroad ever since that line was built several years ago. In addition to her duties in connection with the railroad she has a large private practice.

As surgeon for the railroad, Dr. Herzog has gone through many trying experiences, but in no instance was there the slightest falter in the quick and effective performance of her work. She was born in Vienna, Austria, and came to the United States in 1885. She studied medicine and surgery, and after her graduation she practiced the profession in the state of New York for nine years.

Believing that a wider field for her endeavors existed in Texas, she moved to Brazoria, where she has lived ever since. During the construction of the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railroad she was called to attend the injuries of laborers hurt in accidents, and the skill which she showed

Dr. Sofie Herzog.

In these cases caused her fame as a surgeon to quickly spread, with the result that she was appointed surgeon for the road upon its completion.

Y. W. C. A. Work in Paris.

Paris scarcely would be regarded as a fruitful field for Young Woman's Christian Association work, but Louise Holman Richardson, who just has completed five years work there as a general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., thinks differently. When she took charge there was one almost moribund organization of the kind there. It had a paper list of 150 members, but for all practical purposes was non-existent. Miss Richardson took hold of the work with all the enthusiasm of the American college woman. As a result there are now in the French capital three branches of the Y. W. C. A., with a total membership of more than 1,000 and all aggressive. Miss Richardson is a graduate from Boston University, a co-educational institution. For several years she was professor of Latin in Carleton College, Northfield, and afterward held the position of assistant dean in Wesleyan College, Ohio.

Success with Sandwiches.

When I wish to have especially nice sandwiches I bake my bread in large baking powder cans. I have some cans that hold twenty-five ounces (pound cans will do) and when I mold my bread I fill them half full, let rise until full, then bake. I then have slices just a nice size, with only a thin crust. Here are two nice fillings for them: Equal quantities of boiled ham and hard boiled eggs chopped or ground in meat chopper. For peanut butter as a filler I use one quart of ground peanuts and one fourth pound of butter thoroughly mixed.—Mrs. S. W. Jones.

Red Cabbage with Apples.

Take a head of cabbage, about two pounds, cut it fine, wash, and let drain. Have ready a saucepan with one and one-half tablespoons of hot lard, drop in the cabbage, and let it stew for three-quarters of an hour adding a little water and salt. Then pare about four large apples, cut them in fourths, put them on the cabbage, and boil until apples are done, stir and add about one and one-half tablespoonfuls vinegar, and a little sugar. This will make a nice dish to serve with pot roast.—Detroit News-Tribune.

To Save Elastic.

To save elastic in children's blouses, which cost sometimes as much as the material of the blouse, take a piece of tape or selvage the size of the child's waist, less four inches. Cut the tape in half, insert four inches of elastic, put the tape with the elastic in the center of it. In the hem of the blouse. It will act the same as if it were all elastic and wear better. Therefore you can make six blouses with the same elastic which you would otherwise put in one blouse.

Sponges should be hung where the fresh air will reach them and where they will dry thoroughly. If possible, the sponge should be dried in the bright sunshine, and thoroughly scalded now and then in soda and water.

GETTING AN "OLD MAN."

New Employee Obeyed the Order Literally and Promptly.

"Speaking of new men," he went on, with a twinkle, "comical things happen even up here, the same as in a theater. Sometimes in rush seasons there ain't enough hands to go round, and we have to take 'em green as the hills. I had one once, a kid from Vermont, a whale of a kid, with bones like a horse and eyes awful anxious to please—eyes that made you like him. He's one of the best men I've got now, but then he was green as God made him." The foreman stopped to chuckle.

"Go up to the eighteenth floor," I told him one day, "and bring down an old man." I was busy at the time, and when I saw the kid stare I said, kind of sharp, that if that old man wasn't here in five minutes the whole blamed building would probably go to smash. This was just my way of making him hustle, but he thought I meant it word for word. He went up on the run, and in a few minutes he came down with a sputtering, clawing old feller held like a vise in his arms.

"He was the only old man on the floor," said the kid. "And he wanted to stop and argue about it, but from what you said I knew what it meant, so I just grabbed him and came."

"You see," the foreman added kindly, noting my puzzled expression, "an old man happens to be the name of a tool we use.—Everybody's Magazine."

NO INTENT TO DEFAUD.

"Lend me 25 louis? A pretty idea! And suppose you were to die to-morrow?"

"Sir, you insult me. I may be poor, but at least I am honest."—From Rite.

The Simple Life.

Hungry Guest—Afraid I'm a bit late, but hope I haven't kept breakfast waiting.

Hostess—Oh, I forgot to mention that we're trying the "no breakfast" plan, and feel so much better for it. We do trust it will have the same effect with you.—London Punch.

Nobody Left.

A Sunday school teacher, after reading the story of Ananias and Sapphira to the juvenile class, asked: "Now, children, why doesn't the Lord strike everybody dead who tells a lie?" "Cause," answered a bright little fellow, "there wouldn't be anybody left, hardly."

Crushing News.

"What are you doing with the crutch?"

"Taking it home for my little boy." "What happened to him?"

"While he was bringing home the mail a Sunday paper fell on his leg."—Youngstown Telegram.

Ring Methods.

Elia—Has Fred called on you within the last day or two?

Stella—Yes; but why do you ask? Elia—He told me only a few days ago that I was the only girl that he had ever kissed, and I told him to go and get a reputation.—Puck.

Grandma is Gooder.

"Don't you think you have a good mamma, to spread such a nice, big slice of bread with jam for you?" asked the visitor.

"Oh, yes," replied little Lola; "but my grandma is gooder; she lets me spread the jam myself."

Not Us.

"The bride was young and beautiful," says a Virginia paper, "her chestnut hair being in ringlets about her marble brain." How would you like to marry a girl with a marble brain?—Toledo Bee.

Pressure Applied.

"It is said that you gave money to the Legislature."

"Another untruth!" replied the man who was being investigated.

"The Legislature took it away from me."—Washington Star.

Hair-Breath Escape.

Stella—I suppose you have had many a hair breath escape?

Knicker—Yes; a woman's coiffure was all that kept me from seeing a play once.—Harper's Bazar.

Cheapest Way Out.

"Poor Tom, it cost him a terrible lot to give up his sweetheart."

"Then why did he?"

"Because it would have cost him a great deal more if he hadn't."—The Tatler.

Tough Luck.

"How are things in Plunkville?"

"On the bum. Our police station was robbed last week and yesterday our Fire Department was burned out."

BUTLER'S DOPE MUDDLED BY ROSE POLY'S DEFEAT.

Coach Thomas is Putting Butler Squad Through Paces in Preparation for Game Saturday.

It will take hard work to get the Butler college eleven in shape to defeat DePauw at Greencastle next Saturday, for that is what the local collegians are going to try to do, despite the fact that the dope is against them. Coach Thomas has a hard program arranged for the Blue and White warriors this week, as there will be scrimmage every day up to next Friday.

When DePauw defeated Rose Poly last Saturday by the score of 24 to 0, it threw a chill in the Butler camp. Butler was expecting to see Rose conquer, and if they had it would have been a pretty sure sign of a Butler victory next Saturday. The indications from the DePauw-Rose clash are that the Methodists will be good favorites over the local collegians. Nevertheless, Coach Thomas will send down a team of fighters, and a large crowd of Butler rooters will accompany the team, hoping to see them return victorious.

The local collegians will present their strongest lineup when they meet DePauw, Pete Morgan, Kirkoff and other regulars, who were absent from the Moores Hill clash, will be in the lineup. The poor showing of some of the Butliettes against the Moores Hill team last week will cause a number of shifts in the lineup. It is understood, so that rivalry for positions of the eleven this week will be much in evidence. New plays are to be given the squad every day.

Last year Butler defeated DePauw 3 to 0 at Washington park. The game next Saturday will have much to do in giving both Butler and DePauw places in the secondary championship race of the state. A victory for Butler would keep the state collegians next to Wabash in the race, while a DePauw victory would seriously muddle up the standing of number of teams. Although Earlham held Wabash to 7 points last Saturday, the Quakers must still be classed below Butler, who defeated Earlham, say the followers of local collegians. They claim that Wabash hasn't as strong a team now as it had earlier in the season.—Indianapolis Star.

The city council meets this evening Jackson street, the only street of the square improvement not yet accepted, will be up for acceptance or rejection.
